AFTER DRUG STORES.

Six Places in Waterbury Way Lose Licensez.

Temperature workers throughout Connecticut have been in Waterbury during a red fox and fourteen deer.

Connecticut have been in Waterbury during the past few months seeking elifence against drug stores that violate the Equor laws, and as a result fix Waterbury pharmacles will in all probability be refused ligner licenses this past, says the Waterbury American. The proprietors of these six places will be clied to appear before the state pharmacle commission Wednesday marning at New Haven, and will be given a change to be heard.

Members of the commission said that Waterbury has the worst reputation of any other city in the state because of the many offenses against the light hans. Join A Leverty of Bridgepart, who is secretary of the commission, said this afternoon the commission, said the six Waterbury and the following states: New Jersey, Pennsylvania, North Carolina and South Carolina. In order that there may be greatly bad when some drug stores would have be get along without their liquor firelases this year. It is pretty bad when some drug store proprietors run a saloon indeer the mark of a pharmacy, and this busiproprietors run a saloon under the name of a pharmacy, and this had-ned is zoing to be stopped, said Sec-retary Levertey. Waterbary is tin wifn city for that, and we have evidence in our possession which will make at least six you.

The sale of liquors.

Not only has there been violation.

Not only has the secretary in-I quor laws, the secretary la timated but some of the drug stores of the eir; have been guilty of violation of drug laws, but just what these violations of drug laws, but just what these violations consisted of Secretary Levery would not say. He alld say however, that Wieterberg has every other city in the state bearen when it comes to pharmacies violating the liquor laws.

The ment bery of the state pharmacy commission said that they didn't have to look for any evidence. All the cylcience necessary was handed them by men interested in well kept drug stores. "And there are temperance people, too," said J. A. Levery, "who have given us enough evidence to revoke drug store liquor levases. The county commissioners will not grant drug store liquor licenses. these six licenses against whom we have evidence, I wager," added the Horses mad persons to feed and look after them, but "if it comes to a matter of necessity," the stablemen will be summoned to join the strike. As a matter of common observation a strike that reaches a stage where tactics so desperate are invoked is already lost. If the expressmen cannot make substantial headway without threatening their stumb associates, the probability is that dumb associates, the probability is that an attempt to involve the horses in an an attempt to involve the horses in an accoluntary sympathy strike will not invigorate the cause. The horses, of ourse, will not be allowed to suffer. They will be ourse for, whether or nor the stablemen quit. THE FADED FIELD. Broad bars of sunset-slanted gold

Are laid along the field, and here
The silence sings, as if some old
Refrain that once rang long and Came softly, stealing to the ear Without the aid of sound. The rill Is voiceless and the grass is sere, But beauty's soul abideth still.

Trancelike, the mellow air doth hold
The sorrow of the passing year;
The heart of nature groweth cold.
The time of falling snow is near;
On phantom feet, which none may hear.
Creeps—with the shadow the hill—
The semblance of departed cheer,
But beauty's soul abideth still.

The dead gray-clustered weeds enfold
The well-known summer path and drear.
The dusking hills, like billows remains the distant sky, appear
From lonely haunts, where Night and Fear
Keen ghostly tryst when miles Keep ghostly tryst, when mists are The dark pine lifts a jagged spear, But beauty's soul abideth still.

ENVOL

Dear love, the days once were drear May come no more; life may fulfill Her fleeting dreams with many a tear But beauty's soul abideth still.

—Robert Burns Wilson.

HOW WONDERFUL IS LOVE.

How wonderful is love!

More wonderful, I wis,
Than cherry blossoms are when
spring's first kiss
Warms the chill breast of earth,
And gives new birth
To beauty! High above
All miracles—the miracle of love,
Which by its own glad and triumphant power Brings life to flower!

Brings life to flower!
Oh, love is wonderful!
More wonderful!
More wonderful than is the dew-fed
rose
In gladness of the light.
When first the dawn comes robed in vesture cool
Of fragrant, shimmering white!—
More wonderful and strange
Than moonrise, which doth change
Dullness to glory—
Yea, with a touch transforms the mountain heary
And fills the carkling rills with silver bright:

Not music when 't wings
From the far azure where the skylaric
sings
Is wonderful as love!—
Not music when it wells
From the enchanted fairy-haunted dells
Where, shrined mid thorn and vine—
An ecstacy apart An ecstacy apart.
Drawn from the life-blood of a yearning heart—
The nightingale pours forth forever The rapture and the pain that nought

of love which mortal is, yet knows itself divine! —Florence Earle Ceates, in Earper's

Near-Painter (calmly)—And so I did, sir, so I did, Why, I occupied a room under your studio for nearly a month! — New Orleans Picayune. "Why was the engagement broken?" "Because of a misunderstanding," replied Miss Cayenne. "Each considered the other lacking in etiquette. They subscribed to different publications and weren't reading the same 'Hints on How to Behave in Society.'"—Washington Star.

Sisyphus was baffled but not discouraged. "Look at Edgar Alian Poe!" he said: "It took him 61 years to get into the Hall of Fame, but he made it at last!" Bending to his work with renewed energy, he rolled the stone up the hill again.—Chicago Tribune.

Riley—How about that gold mine you bought stock in last year? Smiley—Why, we've called it "The Buildog." It's the bravest little mine you ever heard of. Riley (puzzled)—Bravest? Smiley—Sure! There isn't a yellow streak anywhere in it.—Puck. The political boss of a small west-ern city drove the buckboard at top speed down the main street on the morning of an election. "Hey, Jon-nie!" he yelled to his son, "git down in the Fourth ward quick. There's peo-ple down there voting as they blame please!"—Success Magazine. Nebuchadnezzar was eating grass like an ox. "While I am severely criticised for some of the things I have done." he mused, moving over to a spot where the timothy was longer, "at least it shall not be recorded of me that I published a magazine to induce others to adopt this diet."—Life.
